

Grief Recovery

If you have ever asked yourself the question “What more could I have done for my Community Members?” the answer is
 The Grief Edu-Therapy™ Process

The Grief Edu-Therapy™ Certification is a unique training program which encompasses the principals and actions necessary for effective grief resolution, developed over the past 30 years by Eric Cline, founder of The Grief Recovery Institute in Canada, and Edu-Therapy Ltd. The cumulative effects of unresolved loss negatively affect our ability to participate in life and relationships. Grief Edu-Therapy™ is specifically designed to assist all those who wish to help individuals resolve the conflicting emotions caused by loss, enhancing their ability to participate fully in their lives. The uniqueness of the program lies in the essential idea that grief is the normal and natural emotional reaction to loss. Edu-Therapy™ Training Modules include the most effective and up-to-date processes for working with individuals, and groups, suffering from significant emotional loss. This eight-session process allows both the caregiver and griever to work at their own pace and develop the essential skills for heart-helpful grief resolution.

Healing Naturally

During the 4-day Certification Training Program, you will learn:

- Why people intellectualize grief and how that causes them long-term emotional distress
- The six ways people think are the correct ways to handle grief but actually leave grief unresolved
- Why the DABDA Model (Denial, Anger, Bargaining, Depression, Acceptance) is the wrong approach for grievers
- Techniques for identifying and resolving loss
- The most effective communication techniques for every part of the Grief Edu-Therapy™ programs
- The topics that grievers need and want to talk about such as The Residential School experience, and working out the many layers of unresolved grief
- How to enhance all of your relationships
- Specific formats for both one-on-one and group work
- How to market your expertise in Edu-Therapy™ for dealing with the conflicting emotions caused by loss
