About Rodgers Investment Consulting

Rodgers Investment Consulting was founded in 1993 to provide consulting services to individual clients and not for profit organizations. Our primary focus is on those Aboriginal communities, non-profit organizations, individuals and families with significant investment assets who require professional investment management.

We are a small, tightly focused organization by design. Our small size enables us to form close relationships with each client and to fully customize our services to each client’s individual need. While small we have partnered with outside service providers to develop proprietary programs that assist in preparing reports and conducting performance analysis. We also subscribe to major independent databases to assist in conducting manager research.

Our commitment remains to deal with clients honestly and in a forthright manner to provide them with the information they require to make wise decisions. By remaining small and highly personalized, we retain our ability to develop creative solutions to the needs and concerns of communities, leadership, and organizations.
